So, the NU Scholars Program is a very special program to me, where we identify very talented students. You know, their ability to overcome obstacles, to deal with large families, big work schedules, and still prevail in their academic goals — and do so in extraordinary ways.	Former National University President Dr. David Andrews. A man wearing a gray suit jacket over a white button-up shirt speaks to the camera. A window and potted plant are behind him.
I’ve been empowered by the different education opportunities that the NU Scholars provides.	Michelle is a 2018 graduate. A woman with curly brown hair, wearing a tan suit jacket over a pink blouse, speaks to the camera. She stands outside with green plants in the background.
So, what attracted me to the NU Scholars Program was the community service aspect of it. I’m a huge advocate for community service.	Jordana W., class of 2019. A woman with dark hair in a bun, wearing a white blouse with black polka dots and a dark-colored cardigan, speaks to the camera. She is outside, with a wooden bench, red flowers, and a balcony behind her.

I believe that the Scholars Program is going to help me get ready for the next chapter of my life and help me create a portfolio so that by the time I graduate, I'll have everything that I need to apply for jobs.	Christopher F., U.S. Navy veteran, class of 2022. A man with short blond hair, wearing a blue and white checkered shirt with a maroon tie, speaks to the camera. He is outside with a white building and trees in the background.
I think what I've learned — I just learned a lot about just how to be professional. Being able to shake hands and, you know, to kind of learn about other opportunities that National is offering.	Rachel F., class of 2018. A woman with blond hair speaks to the camera while sitting outside. She is wearing a gray suit jacket over a pink shirt. A balcony and red flowers are behind her.
What I have learned since joining the NU Scholars Program is that it's good to step outside of your comfort zone every once in a while. It's contributed to my growth so far.	Close-up shot of Jordana W. with a white background. She speaks to the camera.
Through the NU Scholars Program, we are actually encouraged to participate in some sort of community-based leadership, whether it's an event, a fundraiser, or a drive.	Trey G., class of 2020. A man with dark brown, side-swept hair speaks to the camera. He is wearing a white suit jacket over a pink turtleneck. Red stairs with a white railing are in the background.
I wanted to become an NU Scholar because it is a great opportunity. First, to help my community. Second, to put into practice my knowledge and skills. And it is a really, really great opportunity to grow as a professional and as a person.	Cecilia M., class of 2019. A woman with dark hair pulled into a ponytail speaks to the camera. She is wearing a white, floral lace tank top and a beaded necklace. In the background, there is a grassy hill, a building, and a brick half-wall.

This scholarship program has allowed me to push toward bettering myself, push toward reaching my goals at a much higher standard than what I had originally intended.	The video returns to Trey G. as he speaks to the camera.
The NU Scholars Program attracts a variety of students from diverse backgrounds, and everyone is really striving toward their personal, individual best, using their unique talents and strengths to help them in their National University endeavors.	Jiaunna A., class of 2020. A woman with dark hair pulled into a ponytail speaks to the camera. She is wearing a pearl necklace and a white cardigan over a striped shirt alternating dark and light blue. Behind her are trees with green leaves.
I've learned that National University has seen something in me that I wouldn't have seen in myself.	The video returns to Rachel F. as she speaks to the camera.
So for me, what I've learned from the Scholars Program is it's not only possible to pay it forward, to pass it along, but there's people out there who want to help you do it...	The video returns to Michelle L. as she speaks to the camera.
And want to help you succeed. (Michelle L.)	The screen fades to white and the National University Scholars Program logo appears on screen.
